

Spill spreads outside Colorado

A spill containing lead and arsenic from an idled mine leaked into the Animas River and has spread at least as far as the town of Montezuma Creek. The EPA has warned people to stay out of the river and to keep domestic animals from drinking from it.

SOURCE: ESRI

AP